PROFILE

I'm a technical writer with 6+ years expertise in technical communication, a curious mind, and an ability to learn new things quickly.

I feel most comfortable working in the docs-as-code environment and use modern technical writing tools, like Git, Markdown, static site generators, CI/CD tools.

I enjoy challenging myself with exciting and inspiring projects and highly value a place in an innovative and productive team.

EXPERIENCE

WorkFusion
2018 — Current

Lead Technical Writer

At WorkFusion, I create customer-facing documentation, such as user guides, release notes, tutorials, etc. My daily activities include communication and collaboration with Development, Product, and Marketing teams, as well as coordinating a small group of Technical Writers.

I drive most of the documentation-related activities including a company-wide initiative of migrating the knowledge base to a Git-based "docs-as-code" framework.

Wargaming.net
2013 — 2018

Technical Writer

Created documentation for game developers, managers, and publishers. Collaborated with subject matter experts from distributed teams. Successfully participated in several large-scale company-wide documentation projects, including the transition from Confluence to a Git-based pipeline. Took part in establishing the documentation delivery flow for 3rd party developers.
